HOW TO APPLY TEXTURE TO YOUR CANVA DESIGNS

Follow these easy steps to make your designs feel more tactile, unique, and professional.

ALL IN CANVA

REPOST SAVE FOR LATER

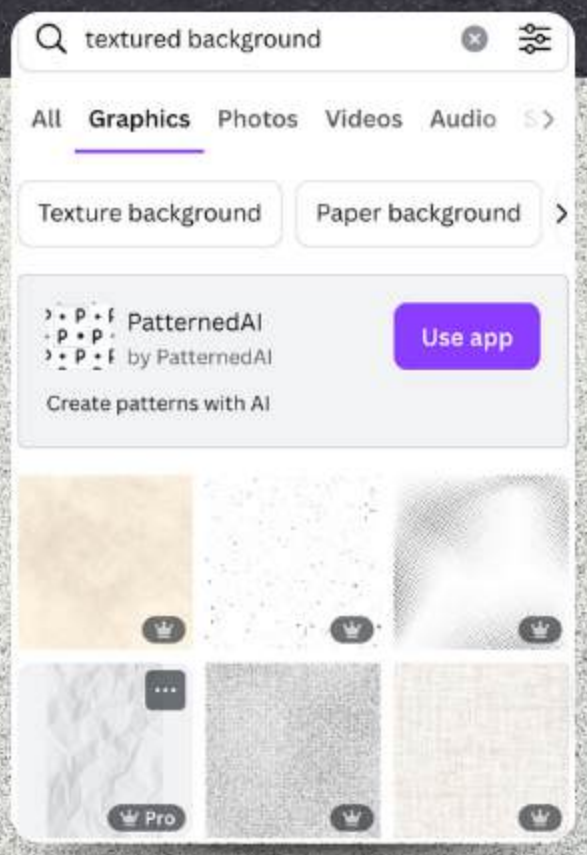
Step 1: Open Your Design

Start with a blank canvas or open the project you want to add texture to. You can use any size depending on whether you're designing a social post, a flyer, or a website header.

Step 2: Search for a Texture

Click on the "Elements" tab in the left sidebar.
In the search bar, type:

- "Textured background"
- "Grunge texture"
- "Paper texture"
- "Fabric background"
- "Noise overlay"



Play around with the keywords to find the style you want. Whether it's subtle, bold, vintage, or gritty.

Step 3: Choose & Add the Texture

- Scroll through and pick a texture that fits your vibe (make sure it's a "GRAPHIC", not photo).
- Click and drag it to your canvas (It will apply to the background)
- If it's not a full-size texture, stretch it or duplicate and align it to tile the effect across the page.

SWIPE

Step 4: Make sure you "Send it to front"

- Anything you want to apply the texture to, has to live "behind" the texture layer. So send all items "to back".

KNOW YOUR LAYERS

Click "POSITION"

Your layers will appear on your left column.

Make sure everything you DON'T want to apply the texture to is ABOVE the texture layer.

Whatever you want to APPLY the texture to, has to be BELOW it.

GRADIENT OVERLAYS AND UNDERLAYS IN IMAGES

Use gradients to direct focus or add contrast to images

- OVERLAY → Place a semi-transparent gradient on top of your image

↳ Great for making text readable or adding mood

- UNDERLAY → Place a gradient shape under a product, logo, or subject

↳ Helps isolate the focal point and adds depth

Try this:

↳ Overlay a soft black-to-transparent gradient to darken part of a photo

↳ Underlay a bright gradient behind a product to make it pop

Both techniques are useful for guiding the viewer's eye and creating a polished visual hierarchy.
